The Recreational Vehicle Industry Association's National RV Trade Show Extends Contract with Kentucky Exposition Center

LOUISVILLE, KY (July 8, 2013) – The Recreational Vehicle Industry Association's National RV Trade Show extended their contract with the Kentucky Exposition Center to go through 2015, with renewal options through 2019. This annual show is one of only five shows that use all 1.2 million square feet of exhibit space. It draws more than 12,000 attendees and is expected to generate over $7.8 million of economic impact annually.

"When great shows like the National RV Trade Show return year after year, it demonstrates our dedication to the client experience and shows the type of relationship we're building to bring shows and economic impact to Louisville," said Kentucky State Fair Board CEO Clifford "Rip" Rippetoe.

The Recreational Vehicle Industry Association's National RV Trade Show will roll into Louisville Dec. 3 – 5 for their 2013 show. The 50th anniversary event in 2012 featured 68 manufacturers and 235 supplier exhibitors displaying the latest RV products. Attendees included RV dealers, warehouse distributors, accessory store owners, and campground operators.
